On Saturday last the Atholford soccer football team accompanied by friends and supporters went to Chilliwack and played a valuable game with the Thistles of that town. After a good game the Chilliwack team turned out one thousand

The game was clean, fair and good exhibition of football. The aboriginal boys being a gentlemanly lot of fellows, imbued with the true spirit of sport, played the game for the sport in it. They made up a good team, but being out against a better one and going down to defeat fairly and squarely took their defeat in the best of spirits and returned home defeated but not conquered.

Mr. Bates informed a representative of the bureau that he had taken 15 stems of potatoes off one acre of land at the farm of the farmer and the ones which he brought to the city were part of this crop. Several of the potatoes weighed only four pounds and later showed the samples which he brought in this morning as one was prepared to doubt him. The spuds in question were grown on high land and did better this year than those grown on the low lying lands. A meter of the crop was taken: the potatoes were planted July eight—that is in the soil. This being a dry year they were able to get more moisture than in shallow plantings. Mr. William Bates, brother of Mr. J. W. Bates, described an additional farm, planted this potatoes on the low lying land and the results were, more or less, the same.

Mr. Bates is only about three quarters of a mile from the Fraser branch of the K. C. N. R., the nearest station being - Oxford. Since the new line has been placed in operation he is able to market his produce in New Westminster much more easily. His land has been dyked and during the past years that he has been farming potatoes, berries, grapes and such.

Mr. Bates has agreed to send in large quantity of these potatoes. Publicity Commissioner Wade will include them with the Westminister District exhibit he sent in Seattle and other lists in the United States. A sack will be sent on to the Great Eastern exhibition on which will travel through the States during

There is a large amount of blast and drilling to be done, and, as days are getting shorter, only a few hours will be worked. However, labor is now plentiful and work will be pushed. Other tracts in the neighborhood are getting along well. These are in the hands of Messrs. Johnson & of McDonald & Company.

On Thursday of this week George Calder, in the employ of Contractor Sullivan met with a heavy accident. It appears that while at work the scaffold which he was standing gave away and Calder and those working alongside him falling to the ground and all sustaining more or less injury. Calder was apparently hurt the worst. He was brought to the Westford Hotel where medical attention was given. Dr. Swift after examining the broken prominence of the injured man put in a dangerous condition.

In the winter 1854 the good ship Prince Royal, after which the present steamer of that name was christened, dropped anchor in Victoria harbor. The passengers on the sailing ship were mostly employed in the fur trade, and came out by the Harbour Regent, who at that time controlled the Crown Colonies of Victoria and British Columbia. On this vessel were also the late Mr. Dunsmuir, and many others whose names are mentioned conspicuously in the history of the province. Among the passengers was a number of coal miners owned by the Hudson's Bay Co. at Nanaimo. One of

Thomas York worked at the mines for two years, and then decided to do something of the man and. He crossed the Gulf of St. Lawrence now Bellingham Bay, and once there went to the town of Pictou, near Bellingham. After staying there for some months Mr. York with his wife embarked in a small canoe and made their way into the Fraser River and up the river to Fort Yale, arriving there in July, 1886. Three months later, on October 18, 1886, the first white

Forty-two years ago Mr. and Mrs. York with their daughter and son and an Alut. Then they moved to Spuzzan and Mr. York operated a saw ferry across that settlement connection with the rush to the Yukon gold fields. Mr. York then came to a hotel at Yalo. One day he was the recipient of a message. York is on his trip from Yalo to Spuzzan, what he desired, somewhere being carried on the back of an old Indian over the Rocky Mountain trail.

The York family left Spuzzan in 1905 and journeyed to Upper Maina, where they were the first white settlers. There, Mr. York started a saw. His son returned here in 1910 and ran the Oriental Hotel there for some years, then returned to Upper Maina where he is now.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1910

There are more people in the political programme who should certainly come west and study the Canadian question before speaking so hotly. Before that one looks over the eastern exchanges with out reading as opinion—usually by a majority of the Church— which is stated that that paraphrased government is wrong in placing a barrier preventing the Chairman of the Canadian Council to pay a visit to the U.S. and the raising of his salary to $100,000. For very serious criticism. Of course the Labor government is wrong in imposing any poll tax on a Chairman. The Chairman should be excluded entirely, and the government of Ottawa that does so will command the respect of nine-tenths of the thinking people of British Columbia. The Age and the Herald should be made to stay away long.

He wants much to come to this province who will help develop its resources and a little some time, to make a home for themselves and family. The Oriental may labor for less money than the white race, but it adds very little to the prosperity of the town even if 1000 of these yellow birds are employed in a sandalwood or in the vicinity of the town. But almost every white man adds in some way to the general welfare of some other province or town but himself—the village or province grows thus a little more prosperous. He does not spend his money and he does not work the merchants of the town, and if he has a little sense, no doubt he better. A large proportion of his money is kept in the home town in the province, and usually in his Canada. All his money is spent in such a way as to help build up our Canada! Who

The local editor in proportion to the means does more for his own city than any other for his own and his neighbors. He is the only one who is supposed not to become unpopular to his own or to his neighbors. He is the only one who is supposed to be a local paper in the best investment a community can make. It may not be the best investment with great wealth, but generally it knows the benefit of its own community better than any other. Understand, at this time, we do not, mean generally or intellectually, but financially, and yet on the moral question you will find the majority of local papers are on the right side of the question. To-day the editors of local papers do the most work for the least money of any class of papers. The local paper, not as a character, but as an investment.

THE MARKET.

New Westminster, Oct. 22.—The market this morning was one of the best that has been held this autumn, and fresh produce was plentiful in all lines, supplies being generally strong, and the demand strong. The attendance was large, and was respectable, for a casual number of farmers from every section of the Fraser Valley who were not content with autumn produce, such as hay, straw, etc., but were present from the city and Vancouver, in addition to the large number of purchasers from the real estate of the city and the representatives of real estate. The fine weather and improved roads had a good effect on the attendance. One of the sellers who have not been seen on the market for several weeks returning to their stands today. But still more noticeable was the effect of the arrival of the Chilliwack train on the attendance, a large number of farmers coming on from the Chilliwack, Fraser Valley, and the train was largely patronized for the reason—no auto to come to the city in the morning and return home even.

A large quantity of meat was brought to the market and most of it sold to the wholesalers, the prices being somewhat at a good level of last week. There was no difficulty in disposing of all the meat offered. Beef was brought to the market in large quantities, selling at the carcass at 1 1/2 and 1 1/4, each. Most of it was bought by F. Brown & Co., who paid 1 1/2 cents in bulk. Mutton, beef and mutton paid 11-14 for a few extra good carcasses of wool, the price being 11 cents. There was not the same amount of real offered this week as last. Mutton was a moderate supply and sold up to 10c, Lamb was more plentiful than last week.

The poultry supply was largely than last week, and the demand seemed to increase correspondingly. Cans of meat were the main buyers and Vancouver firms took a large number. W. Davidson, of Surrey, British Columbia, bought in four dozen White Wyandotters. He also obtained 100-125 and the balance of the birds and chickens, at the same time. Mr. Davidson also took a number of mixed flocks at the price of 10c. Mrs. Dean of Langley, sold three dozen Brown Leghorns at 10c a dozen. Robert May sold mixed flocks at 10c a dozen, and chicken generally averaged 7c. Mr. Brown, of Cloverdale, disposed of a number of ducks at 11c each. There was one of the largest shipments of fruit of this season on the market today in contrast to the small offerings of last week, which was affected by the recent exhibition. Apples sold at 11-15 a bushel, and a few extra large ones at 12-16. A consignment of fruit that was brought to the market by the fruit inspectors last week on account of a supposed marketing of the boxes and the presence of infected fruit was again offered for sale this morning packed and graded in conformity with the regulations. The regular shipment of the fruit at the high price of 11-16 a bushel, whereas last week the same fruit sold at 10c. Eggs sold their retail price of 16 cents at last week and vendors found that this figure was readily paid. The supply is growing smaller each week, while the demand is increasing. Wholesalers began to pay 16c to secure the eggs they required and in some cases as high as 17-18 cents was paid. Before 11-16 at 16 cents retail and found a good demand.

The following are the quotations: Beef, freights per lb.—11-16; Beef, h. quarters—11-16; Lamb, freights per lb.—11-16; Mutton, per lb.—11-16; Veal, each, wholesale—11-16; Veal, choice, wholesale—11-16.

Inconsiderate Landlord

We beg to announce to the readers of this paper, that after being tenants in 675 Columbia Street, New Westminster, for some twelve years we have been forced to vacate these premises by the end of February. In turning up the landlord does not consider the monetary loss we will sustain by our moving the largest stock of Men's Clothing, Furnishings, etc. into the City. In the ordinary way of business it is impossible to sell out such a large stock in a few short months. There is therefore only one thing we can do, and that is to sacrifice our goods and give them to the public at genuine reductions.

We have built up a large business through giving the public the very best at the least possible cost. Among our many high-class lines are Campbell's Clothing. These Clothes need no recommendation to the better dressed man. They are the essence of style, fit, finish, and their wearing qualities have no equal.

For the next four months we are going to give the best value in Men's Furnishings ever given in this city, and it will pay you to watch this space:

SHORTAGE OF LABOR

The executive of the British Columbia after full discussion at a recent meeting came to the unanimous conclusion that the labor question has been the most pressing one confronting our fruit industry.

This year our fruit districts have been much handicapped by lack of labor for the harvesting of bumper crop. The canneries and jam factories have had their output curtailed fifty per cent, largely for lack of labor. The cost of labor is now so high that the majority of their fruit-growers have their profits materially reduced, in some cases seriously so.

Immigration projects and municipal enterprises requiring labor are being retarded or are not being undertaken because of the scarcity of labor.

In the timbered districts of the province, as is well known, land clearing has been almost at a standstill since about 1905. In the dairy and general farming districts the labor scarcity is one of the most pressing problems.

British Columbia is at present time very heavily dependent on Great Britain as a place for the investment of capital but in large, a percentage of present investments, the knowledge of the actual labor conditions has prevented investment. Investing capitalists who would have been deterred from purchasing because of the daily high cost of development of agricultural and fruit growing properties.

An increased fruit crop, such as has been normally expected next year, will find a ready market much more easily than this year, entailing greater costs in handling the crop. A few figures on crops in Oregon and Washington may be interesting. On Vancouver Island, our foremost competitor in berries, the Manager for the Association informed me that they figured on growing a crate of strawberries for 10 cents, picking for 15 cents, packing for 15 cents. And paid 25 cents for the crate. The average price received for 30 lb. crate this year was $12 and the average in berries at this price is increasing. In flood River the manager of a firm informed me that it cost them to grow strawberries 10 cents, to pick and pack 10 cents and crates cost 20 cents. Any strawberry grower who compares these costs and prices with ours will see what a handicap our high cost of labor is. In Puyallup, the most important raspberry section in Washington it cost, according to the manager of the Association 45 cents per 25 lb. crate. As it stands, the average price received for berries local, the cost was 80 cents which price and cost the average is increasing. Our raspberry growers should note these figures. In Puyallup, high class day labor, white, cost $5 for 10 hour day work, and per month received $40 with board, and team 10 hours $10.

In the Rogue River Valley, Board, Oregon, a team costs $10 to $12 per day, day labor $10 to $12, labor by the month $30 with board, by the year $30 to $35 a month with board. The average cost of picking apples is 10 to 15 cents a box, the boxes cost 10 to 15 cents. A grower who can produce apples and load them on the cars at a cost of 10 cents per box for No. 1 apples.

In the apple districts of Eastern Washington prices are somewhat as follows: No. 1 but as a rule prices for labor and boxes are 20 per cent cheaper than in British Columbia. Our selling prices have been lowered in some of our competitors in Oregon and Washington. This means that before next season we should have made at least some progress in solving the labor problem at reasonable prices.

While the fruit growers and especially the small holder who cannot directly import labor in quantity, it is most afflicting. It is quite true that all our agricultural districts are being retarded by lack of labor. No organization which aims to develop any part of British Columbia can afford to ignore this most pressing question. More labor is especially essential to the growth of our dairy, poultry and fruit industries. The question is so large and so important that any influence should be brought to bear to insure that action is taken to procure the necessary labor. The secretary of this association has been directed to collect information from all the sources available to show the hardship imposed upon us by our lack of labor. This information and the evidence of promise of prominent fruit growers over the whole of the province will be presented at the annual meeting of his association held in Victoria in January next. The representatives of the association will then be presented by the provincial government and any other action which seems advisable will be taken.

Any co-operation in the solution of the labor question is asked in the full confidence of a cordial response. There can be but one opinion as to the urgent necessity for concerted action.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Mrs. Ella Johnston is going to marry Mr. Albert Wilson. Mr. Albert Wilson is not going to marry Mrs. Ella Johnston. These are the statements issued from the opposing camps of Johnstone and Wilson.

Mrs. Johnston is trying to make good her assertion that she is going to become Mrs. Wilson by attending Mr. Wilson's wedding and showing off to every other woman who is desirous of marrying Albert. She claims a prior right. Mr. Wilson has been in his own house and standing pat against the determined onslaught of Mrs. Johnston. He has been the most faithful of husbands and has been the most faithful of fathers to his wife and children. He has been the most faithful of citizens to his country and to his neighbors.

Albert tried the worst of tortures in his quest for a wife. He has been the most faithful of husbands and has been the most faithful of fathers to his wife and children. He has been the most faithful of citizens to his country and to his neighbors.

It pays to advertise. Albert had heard his before he had for his wife and his name for a while was not as well known as it is now. He has been the most faithful of husbands and has been the most faithful of fathers to his wife and children. He has been the most faithful of citizens to his country and to his neighbors.

It didn't know then though how much it pays to advertise. Albert had heard his before he had for his wife and his name for a while was not as well known as it is now. He has been the most faithful of husbands and has been the most faithful of fathers to his wife and children. He has been the most faithful of citizens to his country and to his neighbors.

And now she won't go away. I can't get to see them. One hundred and forty-nine times I think of that. And I'm afraid if any of them come here she will chase them away. This gave Mrs. Johnston an opportunity to be interviewed, and while she was not committed as to how she would act toward any of the men who might have the tendency to approach her point of vantage the lifeline room for one to doubt as to her intention to ward the captive Albert.

"Albert will not leave this house unless he leaves with me," she said. "And then we will go to the home of the."

CHILLWACK'S NEW PAPER

The New Era, Chillwack's new paper, visited our station for the first time this week.

The New Era is an eight page paper, neatly printed and carries an abundance of real ads. The ad for there that he is a rustic and will undoubtedly soon have a newspaper to accommodate the merchants of the growing young city of Chillwack.

Editorially the paper says: "A new era has dawned forth a cutting valley that stretches from Chillwack's crest peak toward the setting sun."

"We have every confidence in the present and future prosperity of the city of Chillwack and surrounding district, and it shall be our aim and constant endeavor to assist the development of the community in every legitimate way, and to extend the same and fame of this land where nature's gifts have been so lavishly bestowed. Our policies are independent and not exclusively national, but a free-trade that we trust may be attained without in the interests of honest and progressive government."

With the editor of the New Era, Mr. John M. Miller, and his paper a long and successful career in the long and hard struggle.

The reason why lightning never strikes twice in the same place may be that there's nothing left to be struck.

Divorce is becoming so common that it may soon cease to be fresh news.

You may be the most important person on earth—from your own
point of view.

It took different a man to be good after he gets too old to want to be bad.

YOUNG MAN, DON'T DRINK

Andrew Carnegie is not a presbyterian, but he is a great believer in temperance, an all-around
"downer". He has delivered himself of this most interesting and effective homily on the subject of intemperance:

"The first and most seductive vice, and the destroyer of most young men, is the drinking of liquor. I am so impetuous a lecturer in its dispraise, but I can only blame and tell you what obstar-cles have stood in my way; and I tell you that you are more likely to fast in your secret room acquiring the habit of drinking, than from any of all other temptations likely to assail you. You may yield to almost any other temptation and may reform—may wear up, and it not recover but ground, at least remain in the same ground and maintain a respectable position. But from falling victim to the drink habit, recovery is almost impossible. I have known but few exceptions to this rule."

Andrew Carnegie was a young man himself once; he was "very young," he had no friends, but he possessed great courage of conduct and found out early in his career that the young man who figures for the future pleasure of himself, the young man who will not succeed in the practical affairs of this life. Business men dislike their own personal habits very few, are not inclined to give remunerative employment to youngsters who are head of drink.
The young fellow who starts out with his appetite unsatisfied is undoubtedly to begin. Students find people do not want him; the great, powerful corporations will not employ him; and in the vast majority of cases the young man who drinks for the young man who is to start his way mark in the world—foolish.

WORTH STUDYING

We have to use for someone who became his high boss as foolish as the great general he cannot defend himself to the children's expenditure of nothing more. If we have not sufficient dignity of character to deal with common courtesy know who and so undignified as to find for from an English we have no right to assume a public capacity about it to be the responsibility of that element, common to every-community, which knows no distinction but vilification, and no forsightful expression but along. To represent such we have no ambitions—Cambridge News.

It seems that the ships of the Domestic navy are to be described as building warships are styled H. M. S. 57. What domestic solution of the "C" amount? To him that if a ship is H. M. S. 57 she will fight any enemy off the British Register the instant war begins; whereas if she is H. M. S. 57 she must not do any fighting, no matter how great the danger to the empire until she has received word of the passing of an order in council at Ottawa.

That is what the addition of the word "Canadian" means.—Ex.

Mr. J. J. McPhee left for New Westminster on Thursday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Swift left for the coast cities on Thursday evening.

A GUN ACCIDENT

The little five-year old daughter of Mr. Dumas of Aldergrove met with a painful accident in shooting which her brother was assisting her to do. She accidentally shot her father in the leg. She is now at Mr. Dumas' home under the care of Dr. Swift.

NEW POWDER WORKS

There is a report current that the B. C. Safe Powder Company had representatives in the vicinity looking for a site for establishment works, and that a site had been secured.

When the works were completed some twenty men were to be employed.

The work of building was to commence in July.

Nothing definite could be secured as to the authenticity of the above report.

DRY TOWNS FEND PROHIBITION A PAULKIN NOW

Seven towns in Washington now "dry" territory, having voted out the saloons, are going to vote in the local option question again at the time of the general election November 3. For the most part the nominees of these towns have stated that the prohibition attitude in their city has hurt their business to some extent. It has been shown that it is too difficult and costly to enforce the law against drinking. Other cities cannot afford to lose the revenue from saloon licenses. So it is likely that some of the dry towns will vote "wet" while some of the "wet" communities in the state will vote "dry". The present local option law gives the community a chance to change their minds every two years if the wish. Conditions seem to be so unsettled that business men are strongly opposed to any change in the local option law at present, preferring to wait and see the present law work out its own salvation. It seems fair enough to let it operate. R.

It is our opinion that there is more harm done in this world by the surreptitious touches of greed than all the prize fighting in the world multiplied by ten.—The Journalist

The British Columbia government has a surplus of $1,000,000 for the year ending March 31. The province is now in a position to pay off the whole of the public debt. The expenditure has been greatly augmented during the past few years and notwithstanding there is a balance of actual cash of two and three-quarter million dollars in the treasury of the province.
